

Case study.

Circuit Solutions

Circuit Solutions (Cambridge) Ltd provide a total Contract Electronics Manufacturing solution to the electronics industry and in particular target hi-tech businesses manufacturing high value products.

Additionally, Circuit Solutions has in depth expertise in product testing, top level assembly and component procurement. The company has clients in sectors such as instrumentation, control systems, aerospace, medical equipment to name but a few. The company has invested extensively in modern software, systems and machinery.

Circuit Solutions has been looking to renew their IT - both looking to new hardware and software within their business. Their challenge was to ensure that their transition was as seamless as possible.

Boldfield delivered a solution that was tailored for Circuit Solutions in a timely manner with a minimum of downtime.

Brett Milborn – managing Director says: “I have been a Boldfield client since way back in 1996. A lot has happened along the way. From being a start-up back then we have developed into an established, well respected company with many customers.

It is a compliment to Boldfield that they have been a constant partner through all of our growth and the many changes that we have undertaken along the way. Boldfield continue to be our strategic technology partner for both IT and telecommunications and are a key part of our forward planning.

We find Boldfield listen to our needs and not only come up with solutions time after time but think to the future as well.

Over the years, they have risen to the challenges we have set them and we look forward to continuing our partnership into the future.

Support is a big issue for us – as a high quality manufacturing business we simply cannot afford issues which cause downtime. The Boldfield model works for us and we have always found them responsive.”
